

KMF boast IAC first

KMF (Precision Sheet Metal) apprentice Sam Dutton has been selected to be one of the first members of the Industry Apprentice Council (IAC) and will, along with other members, represent the voice of apprentices across the UK.

Organised by Engineering awarding body EAL (Excellence, Achievement & Learning Limited) the council comprises a cross-industry group of up to 12 apprentices who will meet four times a year in London at the House of Commons, with these meetings coinciding with the All Party Parliamentary Apprenticeship Group of MP's schedule, whose chairman, Gordon Birtwhistle MP will act as host.
