

Financing future growth

Precision sheet metal manufacturer KMF, of Newcastle-under-Lyme, has invested over £800,000 in new state-of-the-art machinery with the support of Lloyds TSB Commercial Finance. The business is aiming to increase turnover by £10m, to £40m, over the next four years

To move into new markets, the manufacturer has invested in the latest Trumpf 7000 punch laser machine to support future growth which was funded through a hire purchase facility. The company has also acquired a second machine, a fully automated Trumpf 5000, which will reduce overhead costs while increasing production output.
